

Making MOOC teachable

When designing courses, we often have the individual learner in mind. However, learning is a social endeavor. What can we do to help people teach our MOOCs, like books are also used in courses around the world? We found that, when working with teachers that teach our kids MOOC, that teachers sampling a course have different needs from for example a syllabus then learners.

To explore this more and help teach our kids MOOC, we have developed a MOOC designed for teachers to help them understand how (and what) to teach with our materials.

This is useful in itself, but also helps more people to teach with out MOOC.
